The Mission of the CDL Parent Council:

- Our mission as the Child Development Labs Parent Council is to promote family involvement in their child’s socialization and education experience

Welcome back to school! It’s that wonderful time of year where the children, teachers and students are all getting settled into their new classes and discovering all the wonderful things about being in school. The Parent Council has gotten started with one of our favorite school institutions; the library! Each campus has their own version of a library program your child can choose a book from, and you’ve probably already seen books come home in their backpack.

A Note on Donating Books: At the CDL, our goal is to stay away from commercialized products. As you are aware in your daily life, it’s not uncommon for your child to see an advertisement on tv and then want it for themselves. We try to avoid marketing to children, so if you’re bringing a different book back to the library, please choose one with characters that are not on television (Paw Patrol, Disney characters, etc).
